

CODE OF CONDUCT

OBJECT

This is the proposed Code of Conduct for the Agrisland Hackathon.

As a main element, respect is requested in all the sessions that take place in the event. No form of abuse or harassment will be tolerated.

THE CODE OF CONDUCT

At the Agrisland Hackathon we believe that every participant has the right to hack in a safe and pleasant environment.

The term “harassment” includes but is not limited to any type of comment, verbal or written, relating to gender, age, sexual orientation, disability, appearance, size, race, religion, social class, economic status, images of a sexual nature, deliberate intimidation, stalking, offensive photographs or videos, or inappropriate physical contact. If what you do makes someone feel uncomfortable, that counts as harassment and is reason enough for you to stop.

Participants who are asked to stop behaving in a manner that may be considered inappropriate are expected to comply immediately.

Sponsors, judges, mentors, volunteers, organizers, and anyone else at the event are equally subject to the anti-harassment policy. In particular, participants are not to use images of sexual content or engage in activities of a sexual nature during the competition or throughout the event. If any person at the event engages in abusive behavior, the organization may take any action it deems appropriate, including notice or even expulsion from the event.

If you feel harassed in any way or realize that someone is being harassed, or have any concerns about it, please contact someone from the organization using the procedures defined below.

INCIDENT REPORTING PROCEDURE

If you feel uncomfortable or believe there may be a breach of the Code of Conduct or the Rules of the Competition, please report it as soon as possible using one of the following methods. All persons reporting any such occurrences have the right to remain anonymous.

By sending an email to agrisland@cidihub.org, your incident will be received by the organizing team. If you need to contact a member of the organization directly, please contact us via Telegram.
